To whom it may concern,

Pursuant to the Tunney Act I am writing to comment on the proposed settlement of the United States vs. Microsoft antitrust case.

I will be brief here because I feel that others far more qualified and eloquent have already state the why's and wherefores of my position.

Suffice it to say that I feel the proposed settlement fails completely to punish Microsoft for the anticompetitive practices that they were found to have employed.

And on a similar note I also feel that there is no real enforcement of the remedies which are put forth in the proposed settlement. The remedies which are put forth, being wholly inadequate in it's attempt to modify the business practices of Microsoft, are provided no real means of enforcement. The pseudo-enforcement provided in the proposed settlement amounts to an oversight committee with no powers to enact change except through the courts.

Thank you for your time. I hope that I have been able to add something positive to the discourse.
